Driving & Equipment Restrictions

Do not drive a car or operate dangerous equipment until your caregiver says it is okay to do so. Some medical conditions make driving, riding a bike or using equipment risky. These include:

- Concussions, fainting, seizures.
- Low blood sugar.
- Taking sedative or pain medicines.
- Eye patches.
- Splints that interfere with safe use of needed parts of your body.

Some conditions require a medical release before you resume driving or do any activity needing complete alertness.
