Rash-Generic

Many things can cause a rash. We are not certain what is causing the rash that you have. Some causes include infection, allergic reactions, medications, and chemicals. Sometimes something in your home that comes in contact with your skin may cause the rash. These include pets, new soaps, cosmetics, and foods.

HOME CARE INSTRUCTIONS

- Avoid extreme heat or cold, unless otherwise instructed. This can make the itching worse.
- A cool bath or shower or a cool washcloth can sometimes ease the itching.
- Avoid scratching. This can cause infection.
- Take those medications prescribed by your caregiver.

SEEK IMMEDIATE MEDICAL ATTENTION IF:

- You develop increasing pain, swelling, or redness.
- You develop a fever.
- You develop new or severe symptoms such as body aches and pains, diarrhea, vomiting.
- Your rash is not better in 3 days.

Document Released: 12/08/2003 Document Re-Released: 03/16/2010
ExitCare® Patient Information ©2011 ExitCare, LLC.